News Notes From Douglas Island

LUCK OF A HUNTING PARTY.

TREADWELL, Nov. 4. -- When it comes to a hard luck hunting story, the party consisting of Mark Smith, Charlie and Oscar Johnson, and Andy Loggengren, which tried to leave Treadwell on a hunting trip can certainly be given the grand prize. Arrangements had been made to have the Pacific take the party but she did not return in time, so the Pacific's understudy, the Lotus, was telephoned for. It turned out that the whine-whang had got corroded and was stuck in the "do-funny," and the Lotus was on the sick list. Mark Smith then started on a still hunt for a row boat, but after searching from Lawson Creek to Marmion Island, he returned with the information that he couldn't find even a pickle boat on the island and that he was going to bed.

The others, however, nothing daunted, awaited the first ferry which they took to Juneau, hiring an automobile to take them to the bar (not the kind with the polished top) and after a pleasant day's shooting returned home--minus the ducks.

DOUGLAS ISLAND DOTS.

DOUGLAS, Nov. 4.--As a bear hunter Billie Burke is a very consistent performer. Saturday afternoon while inspecting the dam on the Treadwell ditch Billie came face to face with three bears--apparently the whole dam family. Billie fired a volley and fled, as he saw one bear coming toward him. The hunter traveled so far the first twenty-two seconds, it took him thirteen minutes to get back and when he did return he found the bear dead. Instead of chasing him it had merely rolled down the hill in his direction. The feat was so easy that Billie repeated the performance yesterday afternoon standing his ground, however.

The first bear measured over six feet in length, but the second was not quite so large.

Marine Notes

The halibut schooner Rolf, Capt. Olson, is in port with a load of herring for bait. The Rolf touched at Petersburg on the way up.

The launch Santa Rita left this morning for Snetisham carrying freight and passengers.

The Fox left this morning on her regular run to Kake and way ports. The Pollux completed taking stores and left for the halibut banks this morning.

The launch Charles Stewart, Capt. Albert Peterson, arrived this morning from Kake. The Stewart is engaged in the mild curing salmon industry.

The Alaska of the Wrangell mill company failed to get away yesterday but is scheduled to leave today. H. T. Tripp's launch is again in port having returned yesterday.

The Humboldt arrived in port early this morning and after a short stay left for Juneau.

August Aalto was a southbound passenger on the City of Seattle.

Henry Brie returned from a business trip to Haines, on the City of Seattle.

Sergeant De Long of the local cable office, and his wife spent the day yesterday at Sheep Creek.

The Pacific Coast Steamship City of Seattle arrived at Treadwell at 1:30 p. m. yesterday, and after loading a few tons of concentrates consigned to the Tacoma smelter, left for Douglas with one first class passenger and 13 second class. All the second class passengers were Montenegrians returning to their homes for the purpose of joining the army at present fighting the Turks.

Yesterday was change day at the mines and a number of parties took advantage of the weather by climbing the hills or floating around the bay in motor boats.

Bishop P. T. Rowe spent the morning yesterday in Douglas and conducted services in the Episcopal church. The bishop will leave for the South on the Humboldt.

Jimmy Cottrell, day clerk at the Hotel Hunter, was a visitor at Sheep Creek yesterday.

Mike McDonnell, an engineer employed at the Ready Bullion, left on the City of Seattle for a business trip to the States. McDonnell's place will be taken by Mr. McPherson during the former's vacation.

MR. KENEEDY GOES SOUTH.

T. F. Kennedy, president of the First National bank of this city, was a southbound passenger on the City of Seattle last evening.

Mr. Kennedy is enroute to San Francisco where he has been summoned to attend the marriage of his brother E. P. Kennedy, assistant superintendent of the Treadwell company, to Miss Teresa Keenan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Keenan, of San Francisco. The wedding will occur on November 27.

As hirsute adornments are not in style, there have been no "whisker" bets so far on the election; everything else has been bet, however, from a necktie to a motor boat. Dave Housel is taking all bets.

The entertainment given at the Treadwell Club on Saturday night was very largely attended and the audience was highly appreciative. The readings given by Mrs. James Vivian Davis showed her to be far from the amateur class in her line. Her words were clearly enunciated, being delivered with an ease and prepossessing manner that betokens years of study and experience.

A. J. Beck left on a short vacation trip to the States yesterday, on the City of Seattle.

Mr. McPherson, engineer at the "240" compressor room, returned from a vacation trip on the City of Seattle. Mr. McPherson has been absent six weeks.

The Treadwell Club management has installed a telegraph instrument in connection with the local cable office. This is only temporary, being installed simply for the purpose of receiving the election returns, which will be read and posted on the bulletin board Tuesday night.

The pile driver, which has been at work for the past week repairing the City dock will probably finish the work today.

Full election returns will be posted at the Little Douglas on Tuesday night.

Auk Tribe, No. 7, I. O. R. M., will give their fourth annual masquerade on Thanksgiving eve, at Red Men's hall.

Full election returns will be posted at the Little Douglas on Tuesday night.
